WALL ETCHED SIGN

A wall etched sign is a type of signage that features a design, text or logo etched dedicated panel. Using techniques such as chemical or laser engraving, the sign's design is permanently etched into the surface, creating a visually appealing and durable display. Wall etched signs are commonly used for branding, wayfinding or decorative purposes in various settings, including offices, hotels, restaurants and retail spaces. They offer a sleek and sophisticated appearance, seamlessly integrating with the surrounding architecture. Wall etched signs are a popular choice for conveying important information or creating a memorable impression in a stylish and lasting manner.

MARBLE ETCHED SIGN

A marble etched sign refers to a type of signage created by etching designs, text or logos onto a marble surface. The etching process involves selectively removing layers of the marble using techniques such as chemical or laser engraving. Marble etched signs are known for their elegance, durability and timeless aesthetic. They are commonly used in upscale settings, such as luxury hotels, corporate offices and high-end establishments, where a sophisticated and prestigious appearance is desired. The natural beauty and unique veining patterns of marble combined with the precision of etched designs create visually striking and distinctive signage that adds a touch of luxury and refinement to any space.
